EDITORIAL

You know how proud a little girl is of her first REAL doll.

Well, that's about the way we feel about our Patriotic League girls. They are always doing something for the soldiers, and nothing is too hard or too tiresome for them to attempt.

They sew, they knit, they adopt French and Belgian Babies, &c., &c.

Here's their latest "stunt."

One of the members happened out to Walter Reed Hospital and found five wounded boys with no relatives or friends to send them magazines and fruit, &c.

So they adopted ALL FIVE. And, say, the things those boys are getting make the other Yanks wish they, too, had been adopted by the Lansburgh girls.

The girls don't need anything for their work unless it be OLD MAGAZINES. If you have some you don't want, just leave them at the Bureau of Information for the P. L. girls.
